A China Boy's Letter

The Man Next Door

Glamor Beats a Drum

THE following letter received this week by Hope Chamber of Commerce from a Chinese school-boy:

Dear sir: You will perhaps be surprised and, at the same time, glad to receive from a Chinese boy of 17 a letter written in your own language. My name is Ching Chihou. I am studying in the First Municipal Middle School (of Hankow, China).

You must have read from the newspapers or heard from the radio broadcast what has been taking place in China during the last few months. My country is fighting not only for her own existence but also for the maintenance of world peace and sacred treaties.

I venture to send you this letter which I respectfully ask you to read because I am sure that when you were of my age and if your country were in such a state that my country is today, or if you had a son of my age or he would have wanted to do that very thing that I have been wanting to do—to go and give up my life for my country at the firing line. But my country thinks me too young to do that at present. Therefore I want to help my country by helping with the International Red Cross.

Good-Farm Prize in Arkansas Won by Lee Garlands

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Garland Win $100 Plant-to-Prosper Prize

TRI-STATE CONTEST

Hempstead Family Judged Best Farm Operators in State

A diversified and well-planned farm program won for Mr. and Mrs. Lee Garland first place in the state Plant-to-Prosper contest, according to Miss Melva Burlington, Hempstead home demonstration agent and Clifford L. Smith, county agent.

The contest, as conducted by the Commercial Appeal and the Memphis Chamber of Commerce, and is sponsored by the Extension Service in the various states. Winners in the contest are selected on the basis of carrying out the live-at-home program, soil improvement and diversification, and home improvement. The Sunday Memphis Commercial Appeal carried the Garland story. The prize was $100 cash. The Garlands are now eligible to compete for the Tri-State prize.

The Garlands are a young couple operating a 300-acre farm near Hope, with a general type of farming which provides an ample living for the family and a satisfactory annual income, and at the same time, builds up the soil and protects the land from erosion.

Feed grown on the farm is marketed through livestock. The herd of thirty white faced cattle is headed by a pure bred bull which Mr. Garland recently obtained from a leading herd of white faced cattle in Texas. He expects to build up the herd considerably in the next few years, and at present, is marketing all the culls.

A barn full of alfalfa hay and a newly built trough also filled with lettuce, and a 100-acre Bermuda pasture which is supplemented with lespedeza, burr clover and hop clover, will carry the herd through the winter.

Raise 400 Turkeys
The Garlands had a flock of 400 Bronze turkeys this year. These were marketed just before Thanksgiving. The extension of electricity out to the farm led to the expansion of the enterprise this year. Two electric brooders costing $30 each, and an electric incubator costing $72, were added to the farm equipment.

The turkeys have a large pasture range. Next year, the flock will be increased and a new brooder purchased. A new pasture land will be provided in order to prevent any possible spread of disease, Mr. Garland said.

Cotton is the other cash crop on the Garland farm with 40 acres planted this year. Rowden-40 is the variety used and the yield has been one-half bale an acre.

An under-planting of shipyard and foundation plantings using cynosurus broadleaf evergreens, junipers, arbutus, nandina, japonica, and English laurel have been added to the landscaping of the Garland place. The yard fence in the north is being moved 15 feet back with a screening in front of it of crepe myrtle, lavender bush, and bridal wreath, bordered with iris, to hide the poultry houses. Privet is being used as screening from the house to the garage.

Is Coming Winner
Mrs. Garland, president of the Hempstead County Home Demonstration Club Council, won first place in the Achievement Day program on Friday, November 12, 1937. She was awarded a budget and this year earned a total of 150 points of vegetables, 97 points of fruits, 12 points of fruit juice, 68 points of meats, 39 points of jams, preserves, etc., 70 points of pickles and relishes, 3 points of catsup and cured 250 pounds of meat.

Last year Mrs. Garland won a $3 prize on her canning which was spent for rose plants to start a rose garden at the back of her large farm home. As a former 4-H club girl, Mrs. Garland was principally interested in home improvement and since she was married three years ago, has maintained

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it good manners to stop in the middle of a public sidewalk to talk?

2. Does a well bred person eat candy or fruit while walking along the street?

3. Should persons walk four abreast on a city sidewalk?

4. Do good manners require one to keep his voice low when talking in a crowd?

5. Is a man being courteous when he sits with his arm on the back of a woman's chair when they are in a public place like a theater?

What would you do if—
(a) Clear your throat to attract their attention?
(b) Say, "May I pass please?"
(c) Say, "I'd like to get by if you don't mind?"

Answers
1. No, for it inconveniences passers-by.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Yes.
5. No, he makes them both conspicuous.

Germany Repeats Offer to Try for Peace in Orient

Meanwhile, France "Rounds Up" Europe's Small Republics

PLANES FOR CHINA

Fleet of 300 Russian-Built Craft Massing Against the Japs

By the Associated Press
Germany was authoritatively reported Thursday to have offered to negotiate a peace in the Far Eastern conflict.

Early last month China replied to a similar report with a statement that she would consider no exclusive negotiations with Japan until every possibility of international intervention and every collective peace effort had failed.

For European Peace
In Paris, foreign Minister Yvon Delbos of France arranged to leave for Warsaw on the first stop of a 17-day tour of the capitals of Poland, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia in the third move of Europe's complicated diplomatic maneuvers.

On the Spanish civil front there was a lack of decisive action. Later reports Thursday in the Orient said China was massing a fleet of 300 Russian-built warplanes for a renewal of aerial attacks on Japan's advancing armies.

On the Yangtze delta battleground the Japanese fought their way toward objectives where groups of American residents were believed to be in danger.

At Shanghai two China Chinese airplanes raided the Japanese positions in the first aerial attack in more than a month.

The Japanese said the Chinese planes operated at a height of 10,000 feet and successfully evaded pursuit craft. The Japanese said, however, in an air battle near or over Nanking six Japanese planes shot down 13 of China's new Soviet-built planes.

Singer Gives Helping Hands Thumbs Down

By the AP Feature Service
NEW YORK—Joan Edwards, 19-year-old radio pianist-singer, thinks the greatest obstacle to success is "good connections."

Joan should be something of an authority on the matter, too. Her father is a music publisher, for whom a great many band leaders and others of stage, screen and radio, would be pleased to die to do a favor. Her uncle is Gus Edwards, whose vaudeville units have played practically every theater in the land, and who is credited with "discovering" Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, George Price and a score of others.

Got Job On Her Own
Two years ago Uncle Gus offered to take Joan under wing, wangle some choice spots for her, pave the road to the top. Joan said definitely "no." Papa offered to see what he could do. Joan said nothing doing.

On her own, the youngest, just out of Hunter college, went to Brooklyn, got a job on a small radio station. Six months later, she was playing the piano for a Manhattan station, singing in a night club on the side.

Uncle Gus wired he had a featured spot for her in his Hollywood air show. Instead of accepting, Joan barged into Rudy Vallee's office, sang two numbers, emerged with a contract. She was with Vallee for two months before he discovered her "good connections."

Likes Perfume
Last week, Joan took another step up, gleefully wired Uncle Gus: "Have just signed for three coast-to-coast programs of my own, on my own."

Joan's intimates have nicknamed her "Luscious." Her greatest extravagance is perfume. She likes vivid colors, tailored suits, Mexican tamales.

"The trouble with 'good connections,'" she says, "is that they get you into a spot before you are ready for it."

Roy Crane Finds Real Europe Has Stranger Adventures Than He Draws for "Wash Tubbs"

Here's a trip to Europe with a famous comic artist, all in one panel of pictures. Artist Roy Crane, whose pen traces the adventures of Wash Tubbs and Cap'n Easy in The Star, is just back from an extended tour. He found plenty of old-world color, and also managed to blunder into a Wash Tubbsian situation himself aboard ship, a situation his pen has recorded in the sketch at lower right.

He Finds Real Life Funnier Than 'Candelabra' of His Pen

Incident of the Warplane and the Neutral Ship Occurred in the Mediterranean—and Not in Fictional "Sneezya"

By NEA Service
Roy Crane, NEA Service cartoonist who pilots Wash Tubbs and Cap'n Easy through their engaging escapades on the comic page of The Star, is convinced that truth is stranger than cartooning, and that the sword is lighter than the pen.

Just back from a long tour of Europe, Crane found border guards in feathers and gold lace that made his own pompous little Pandemonian generals look plain as crows. He found curious characters, odd native customs and outlandish architecture and dress that beat anything he had created in Sneezya, Candelabra, or Belchira.

"I suppose it's true," says Crane, "that real life anywhere in the world is just as comical, just as ludicrous and pathetic, as anything an artist can invent. But it seemed to me that Europeans—so serious that they're funny, so intense in likes and dislikes, so bound by outworn traditions that it's often ridiculous to a Texan like me—provide an endless supply of the kind of characters and situations that amuse American comic-strip readers."

War Plane Over Ship
Crane himself has the knack of running into Wash Tubbsian escapades, and he found plenty of opportunity in the tangled complications which face a visiting American Legionnaire refused to "Heil" Hitler in a restaurant. It couldn't have been more absurd in Candelabra, Crane felt.

He was almost thrown into a German concentration camp because of an altercation which began when a visiting American Legionnaire refused to "Heil" Hitler in a restaurant. It couldn't have been more absurd in Candelabra, Crane felt.

A big war plane circled over Crane's ship in the Mediterranean, apparently in position to see the neutral flag at the masthead. He waved his hand cheerily and withdrew. This was not in Sneezya, mad world, but in today's Europe.

The Natives Doubled Up
Modernization and regimentation have not rubbed out all the quaintness of Europe, Crane found, if you know where to look. No comic costumes he ever drew matched what he saw in little-frequented rural sections of Europe.

But it's all in the point of view, Crane reflects, recalling the incident of the trip that upheaved most to his sense of humor. It was in Bavaria, where the quaint dress of the natives recalls Belchira on Sunday. Among a group to tourist who were observing in condescending amusement the native dress, was a Scot, natty gotten up in his plaid kilts and "distie."

And he was blissfully unconscious, reports Crane, that the natives were doubled up in laughter behind his back at the sight of a man in kilts!

Inside Looking Out
Crane has always been an adventurer

Here's a trip to Europe with a famous comic artist, all in one panel of pictures. Artist Roy Crane, whose pen traces the adventures of Wash Tubbs and Cap'n Easy in The Star, is just back from an extended tour. He found plenty of old-world color, and also managed to blunder into a Wash Tubbsian situation himself aboard ship, a situation his pen has recorded in the sketch at lower right.

Maybe you've noticed Wash Tubbs, in the midst of some absorbing effort, with tongue protruding as he struggles. Here the cameraman caught Wash Tubbs' pen-pal, Artist Roy Crane, doing the same thing. Then at right, Crane is seen as he looks when the drawing's all complete. Fellow artists accuse Crane of getting his characters' facial expressions by looking in a mirror.

Greyhound Settles Bus-Driver Strike

Increase Granted, But Closed-Shop Movement Is Defeated

CLEVELAND, Ohio. — (AP) — Nine Greyhound bus lines resumed normal operations in 16 states Thursday—a compromise agreement negotiated by a federal labor conciliator ending the strike of drivers called by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Agreement Reached
CLEVELAND. — (AP) — The 16-state strike of Greyhound bus drivers was settled Wednesday night with the companies granting wage increase of one-fourth cent a mile for all drivers, but refusing the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen's demand for a closed shop.

Federal Labor Conciliator John L. Corner, who negotiated the settlement, issued the following statement:

"I am glad to announce a complete settlement of the strike now existing on the Greyhound lines. I have received the sincere co-operation of both sides in my efforts to bring about the settlement. The accord reached is satisfactory to both parties."

The wage increase becomes effective July 1, 1938.

But drivers affiliated with the brotherhood went on strike Thanksgiving Day. Their demands included

Necessary Signers for Vote Obtained by Laborite Bloc

Deadlock Broken With Signing of 218th Member Thursday

"SWAP" IS CHARGED

Republican Fish Asks Probe of Pressure Behind the Bill

WASHINGTON. — (AP) — The house leadership broke the prolonged deadlock over wages and hours legislation Thursday when the 218th member signed a petition to force a vote on the measure by mid-December.

Before the 218th signature went on the petition the house heard Representative Fish, New York Republican, demand an investigation of statements that the backers of the administration's wages and hours bill "swapped everything but the capitol" to insure a vote on the measure at the special session of congress.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, asked the senate to send the Pope-McGill farm bill back to the agriculture committee for redrafting along lines suggested by Secretary Wallace.

McNary forecast if the bill were passed in its present form it would be vetoed by President Roosevelt.

Green and Lewis
WASHINGTON. — (AP) — Two giants of organized labor—William Green and John L. Lewis—arrived within a few minutes of each other Thursday to begin their momentous conference on labor's two-year-old civil war.

Organized labor staked its hopes for peace and unity on this conference.

Neither Lewis, chairman of the CIO, nor Green, president of the AFL, would disclose what demands or concessions they carried to the conversations.

Further Shakeup in State Forecast

But Governor Doesn't Indicate What Changes Will Be

LITTLE ROCK. — (AP) — Governor Bailey said Thursday he planned other changes in the near future in his reorganization of the state departments.

"We will have the whole atmosphere cleared by the first of the year," the governor asserted.

"Some of the change will not necessarily be political in nature, but will be because of plain dereliction of duty."

He did not indicate what additional changes were planned in the shakeup.

Ability Not Limited by Class or Creed

YOU could preach a pretty little sermon, if you cared to, on the fact that the newspapers announced on the same day two industrial promotions—one in America, the other in Soviet Russia—which were remarkably similar.

In America, John Holmes was made president of the packing house of Swift and Co. He is the first man not named Swift to become president of the company: he entered the firm in 1906 as a messenger boy, and worked his way to the top in the traditional way.

In Russia, a good-looking young woman named Tatiana Morozova became head of the Soviet Cosmetic Trust, replacing Mme. Vyacheslav Molotov, wife of the Soviet premier. Mme.
Morozova is the daughter of a Moscow day laborer, and strated out as a floor-sweeper and box-heaver at the age of 14.

SO WE have a neat little parallel—up from the bottom, in both cases; and you might go on to say that Russian industry and American industry are sisters under the skin in that they reward merit where they find it.

But the thing goes a little deeper than that. For what this coincidence really means is that well-run organizations in any land—Communist Russia, capitalistic America, or where-ever—have sense enough not to build up a hereditary caste system, an aristocracy of birth. They bring their leaders up from the bottom, simply because that is one way to get good leaders.

America has no copyright on the rags-to-riches story.
The willingness to accept new blood, to reward ability where it is found and to give it a chance to exert itself, is simply the price of survival. You might notice that the two great European nations which stand as the very denial of democracy—Germany and Italy—are today governed, respectively, by a former house painter and by the son of a village blacksmith.

And, indeed, this up-from-the-bottom business has nothing to do with democracy. It simply means that the people who run things recognize that there is no substitute for ability, and that you have to take ability where you find it. If ability happens to be lodged in the boss's son, well and good; if not, look for it elsewhere.

There have been a few societies which ignored this principle; one and all, they crack up. The England of George III's day entrusted government and armies to well-born nincompoops—and lost the American colonies. The France of the same era did the same—and would up with a revolution and a Napoleon. Czarist Russia had the same habit, and no one needs to be reminded what came of it.

For this is the one aristocracy which no society can ignore: the aristocracy of ability. Sooner or later, the able man will find his way to a position which lets him use his abilities to the full. If he is kept from finding his way, he is not the chief sufferer society is.

Real Love and Ego

PRESIDENT William Allan Neilson of Smith College thinks that sacred and holy mother love can be a good deal less admirable than it is commonly supposed to be.

Addressing a meeting of Smith College alumnae in New York, Dr. Neilson declared that "nine times out of ten, mother love is nothing but self-love." He explained it like this:

Mothers want their daughters to "do well" in school so that credit will be reflected on themselves. They plan their daughters' careers with that, rather than the daughters' well-being, in mind. They send their girls to college—and immediately inquire how often the girls can leave college and come home, away from the great opportunities which college life holds out.

The mothers, of course, might have a good deal to say in rebuttal. But the criticism is a good one to ponder over—as a reminder that self-interest is so universal a human trait that it can color even the highest and noblest of emotions.

The Family Doctor

T. M. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Ryegate, the Health Magazine.

Skin Burrowing Mite One of the Oldest Known Parasites of Human Body

This is the first of a series in which Dr. Fishben discusses insect pests and parasites which cause discomfort to humans.
(No. 386)

Insects which disturb the human body are of several varieties, including those which live a parasitic existence upon the body and next those which bite, scratch or in other ways disturb the health of the human being. Probably the parasite with the longest scientific history is the itch mite or Acarus scabiei. This parasite has been known for more than 100 years and probably troubled human beings long before it was first identified.

The condition that it causes is commonly known as the itch, also called the seven-year itch, the Cuban itch, and other less complimentary names.

This little mite which causes scabies burrows into the human skin in order to lay eggs. Worst symptom is the itching, which is always worse at night.

The organism was discovered about 250 years ago by an Italian. Occasionally the condition is transmitted through an animal and there have been cases in which people became infected from playing with a pony, a dog, a cat and in one instance a camel.

Cases are reported in which the itch mite has gotten into the effects of theatrical or operatic companies and gradually infected the entire company.

Fortunately, medical science has discovered ways of controlling this condition, particularly with substances which will destroy the parasite. It is necessary, however, to get the drug to the parasite.

Usually the skin is thoroughly washed with soap and warm water (using a fairly stiff brush), after which the remedy that the doctor prescribes may be applied. The ointments usually contain sulphur but since the skins of different people vary, the exact amount of sulphur desirable must be prescribed in each instance. The ointment is left on overnight.

Next day a second warm soapy bath is taken and all the underclothing is changed. In general, old underclothing and bed linen once infected should be boiled or destroyed. It may be necessary to repeat this procedure three or four nights in a row before the parasites are entirely eliminated.

Things Are Getting Pretty Confusing in Europe

Your Children

Slow to Learn—Laggard Pupils Neglected

Schools are doing wonders to encourage and help the "slow" child, but a friend says that she won't send her children to a public school any longer because teachers discriminate terribly between the smart and the dumb ones.
I don't know what school she means or how she happened to get so bitter, but I opened my eyes at her letter and decided that I'd speak about it.

I look back on my own teaching days, and feel very guilty. No matter how I tried to encourage the backward ones, there was always the feeling of gratitude to the smart child, who made my work easy and brought up my grades for the magnum to inspect.
Maybe I, too, brightened up and patted Johnny when his papers registered 90's and 100's. And maybe I did treat him with a bit more grace than I did the others. Teachers always work under pressure. They are human beings.

They have to keep their jobs, and they react to good workmanship exactly the same as the man with a store does to the clerk who can sell the most merchandise and bring in more customers.
What price a meal ticket!

Sometimes I wonder if it wouldn't be better if we turned Chinese and did things backward, as they say. If we would put a premium on stupidity and laziness, maybe teachers would pat the slow ones and out of sheer happiness and encouragement, their minds would work faster. I believe there is something greatly lacking in our system of perfectionism in education that

CHAPTER XIII
"STAND STILL! Stand absolutely still!"

Robert Barry roared the command like an army major.

When the lantern dropped and Mary Melissa had screamed, the two of them had been on the brink of a subterranean cliff. Bob didn't know just how high it was,
but he knew it was dangerous.
If Melissa moved carelessly in her fright, instant tragedy might result.

"It's all right!" he calmed her.
"Stand where you are, and I'll come to you."

They had been 15 feet or so apart. Carefully he felt his way through the darkness, talking in soothing tones.

"Oh-h-h-h, I don't know how I could have done that!" She trembled when he finally touched her.

"No matter, Melissa. Accidents happen to anybody. I should have held the lantern. It was my job, not yours. But there's no harm done. We have others in camp, you know. Five, all together, and plenty of gasoline for them."

She was still trembling, and his arm went around her waist. There in the darkness she felt so utterly little. He held her tight to him, in both arms, petting and comforting her as best he could. In a moment she had her composure again.

"All right?" His voice had his old smile in it.

"Yes, thank you, Bob. But it's the worst fright I ever had."

"Shouldn't wonder. Now we'll take the candles and go back out."

"You have candles?" She was both surprised and delighted.

"Yes. But—"

him. "Easy now," he calmed himself. This was a new danger, but maybe luck would hold. He could go back to that pack in darkness—maybe!

Maybe!

But he couldn't. And of course he soon had to admit their real plight. He had collected his wits by this time, and tried to speak lightly of it. She didn't answer for a moment or two, then—

"Rob, I'm not frightened now.
At least I am no longer nervous about it. But you aren't fooling.
We're in a predicament, aren't we?"

He reached out to put her hand in the darkness.

"Yes," he admitted, huskily,
"we are."

She said nothing else then. She merely waited.

"Mary Melissa, I am the masterpiece among fools. I could choke myself with satisfaction." He was, rather, in deep despair, condemning himself in all seriousness.

"I won't ask forgiveness," he resumed, "for I don't deserve it.
I'm going to try my damndest to get us out of here, but you ought to hate me forever, even if I do.
I almost wrecked our expedition plans by swinging from that rope in my haste that day. I can think, but I think sketchily. I am not —not dependable. I'm sorry, and I—"

"Bob!" She squeezed his arm.
"Hush! You are no worse than I.
Not as bad. You've been wonderful, all the way through. From the very day I surprised you at Blanco Canyon, when you were expecting a man."

"Bob, I know it wasn't fair to ask you to bring a silly girl on a scientific expedition like this.
But you did, and I love—I like you tremendously for it, for being a great sport. I admit we are in a jam now, but we're still alive, aren't we—partner?"

HER voice had been soft, liquid,
There was no fright evident, no accusation, nothing but sincerity.

It brought a lump of pride for her in Bob Barry's throat. What a girl! He had a sudden mental vision of her beauty, too, and he was almost overcome with emotion, in his sudden wholehearted admiration of her. She hadn't cried, or whimpered, or sniveled.
Instead, she had actually comforted him!

In the utter darkness there he threw up his chin, a bit embarrassed with himself, and laughed a little in new confidence.

"The pack," he stated, "ought to be back this way."

They moved at snail pace.
Often they crawled on hands and knees, to avoid slipping and falling, also to make feeling with their hands easier. They must—simply must—locate that pack.

"I have a bar of chocolate," he announced, after they had crawled for what seemed hours. "You must be hungry."

"Not at all!" she lied. She knew that chocolate might be doubly precious later. "I couldn't eat now."

He put it back in his pocket.
They sat still to rest again, holding hands. He tried to think of some way to make artificial light.
But these rocks were not flint.
And all they had for tinder would be their clothing. He squeezed her hand, and they began to crawl again.

THEY hoped against hope, and it was true. Their search continued for what must have been several hours. Each stop for rest made them realize the immensity of the great cavern. They had lost all sense of direction.

"Keep your chin up, kid," he said once, softly.

"I feel fine," she declared. To prove it she sang a little, and they both laughed. It helped.

"I think the thing to do is take it easy, and conserve the chocolate bar," he announced. "The others will of course start looking for us in a few hours, and have the laugh on us for the rest of the trip."

She laughed, to show confidence.
But she didn't feel confident.

Lissa remembered, and Bob remembered, that only Honey Bee Girl knew of the cave at all. And she had been emphatically ordered not to tell, not to follow.
Being a loyal servant, she probably would obey orders, even if they were gone a week or more.
She would be just that stupid, they knew. And besides, they had told her they were fully prepared for as long a stay as necessary.

She snuggled a bit, just for the comfort of being nearer him. He put his arm around her shoulders and held her close.

"Do you mind," if I kiss you?"
softly, intently, "if I kiss you?"

"Please do," she whispered.

Legal Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 520

An Ordinance to be an Ordinance Entitled An Ordinance Authorizing the City of Hope, Arkansas, to Purchase Electric Power Lines, and for Other Purposes.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS:

SECTION 1: That the City of Hope, Arkansas, purchase from the "Farmers' Power Line" the said electric line, said line consisting of all poles, wires, cross-arms and fixtures (except the transformers, lead-in wires, meters and fixtures that pertain thereto) for the sum of Six Hundred Five and no/100 Dollars ($605.00).

SECTION 2: That the City of Hope, Arkansas, purchase from the stockholders of a single phase rural type electric power line, built over and along Highway No. 29 North of Hope, beginning at a point near the South line of Section 17, Township 12 South, Range 24 West, and extending to the South line of Section 29, Township 11 South, Range 24 West, ending with service to Reed's Store, which is now operated by one Mr. W. H. Harris, including all poles, wires, cross-arms, pins, insulators, meter bases and other appurtenances thereunto pertaining,
for the sum of Twenty-one Hundred Seventy-five and 18/100 Dollars ($2175.18).

SECTION 3: That the City of Hope, Arkansas, be, and they are hereby,
authorized to consummate said purchases, and to pay to the respective parties the purchase price, as here-inbefore specified, upon proper transfer and delivery of the said lines and equipment.

SECTION 4: That the Mayor and City Clerk of the City of Hope, Arkansas, be, and they are hereby,
authorized to consummate said purchases, and to pay to the respective
parties the purchase price, as here-
inbefore specified, upon proper transfer and delivery of the said lines and
equipment.

SECTION 5: That all ordinances and or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith be hereby repealed; and whereas the City of Hope has agreed with the Public Utilities Commission of the State of Arkansas, for and in consideration of the permit to service the area where said lines are now located; and whereas, the consumers in said area are requesting service, therefore an emergency is hereby declared to exist, and this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication.

Passed and approved this 29th day of November 1937.

shoves the smart along and pushes the more deliberate into the discard.

It is a pity, because the so-called slow child may have the makings of genius in him. I mean this, because I know of several young men and women who flunked out of school, with their "isms" and "ologies" who later became famous in their own right.

Help Slow Find Groove

Teachers lose a lot of time trying to coach the less alert, and besides the quicker child gets bored when he has to wait for the others to catch up. He cannot stand the monotony of repetition and he loses his driving force. There are so many things against the more deliberate child that I believe it will never be solved to everybody's satisfaction. It has been suggested recently, during Education Week, by one ingenuous lady, that school be divided into rooms for the smart, the slower and the slowest, but this, I am sure, would only make a bad situation worse. Why dub the child as stupid publicly? Why fix him in a groove that is second or third class?

I have an idea that may not be too crazy at that. When children are slow at arithmetic, grammar and geography, why not put them in rooms where they can study flowers and art and tany kind and simple science? We make too holy this thing called the three "R's." Minds differ. One man's meat is another's poison. Try the smart child at extra-curricular problems and see him fail, which he may. I have no answer, but it is high time that "slow witted" children are treated better.

The world is keyed up too highly by the too talented. We did better when every man had his chance.

Bats, snakes and toads can live longer without food than any other creatures.

WHY PAVE STREETS WITH CONCRETE?

here's why —

- 1 Every street demands a gritty, non-skid surface for the protection of motorists and pedestrians.
- 2 At night you need a pavement with high visibility.
- 3 Safety also calls for a pavement that is free from chuck holes, ruts and bumps... and stays that way with minimum maintenance.
- 4 You want a pavement that drains quickly... that is easily cleaned and stays clean... no depressions to catch dirt.
- 5 You want a pavement that makes the whole neighborhood look modern, prosperous, attractive.

Concrete... and only concrete... completely meets all of these specifications.

Would I could write a song that would beguile All hearts of pain and leave a lasting smile;
But smiles are lovely, only when they grow
"Twist pain and heartaches, planted row by row."
"Grieve not!" are words
I never Too real is anguish to be soothed that way.
I whisper only, "wait a little while,"
Some day shall grief make lovelier your smile.
Some day you shall remember and be glad to count the hours of happiness you've had;
For all the brave and gentle souls you know
Have planted smiles and heartaches row by row." E. A. G.

This poem is dedicated to the comfort of my lately bereaved friends.

Mrs. Albert Graves and Mrs. Elizabeth Pritchard were Wednesday visitors with Miss Happy Pritchard in Little Rock.

Miss Ruth Taylor who has been the guest of Mrs. A. F. Hanagan and other friends for the past week left Wednesday night for her home in Henderson, Ky.

The Day view Reading club held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Fred R.
Harrison, South Pine street, with a splendid attendance. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Hugh Smith and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. V. A. Hammonds. Following the roll call Mrs. Smith, who was also leader for the afternoon opened her program on Contemporary Women poets with a short talk on the part beautiful poems in the hearts of readers, saying that poems were thoughts expressed in lovely words and while all poems did not rhyme, there was a rhythm that pleased. Mrs.
D. B. Thompson had as her subject for discussion, Edna St. Vincent Millay, America's ranking poet, who has received the highest awards for her outstanding poems a number of times.
Mrs. Hammonds discussed the poet, that seems nearest to us, hailing from our neighbor state, Texas, Mrs. Grace Nell Crowell, who never fails to reach the heart of her readers. Mrs. Crow-well reached the height of her fame as a poet through physical suffering of long duration. Miss Helen Welshimer, the poet who touches on the modern more than either of the above mentioned poets, was discussed by Mrs. R.

Local Children Register for Movie to Be Filmed in Hope

Scenes like this will be seen on location in Hope soon.

Interest in the Juvenile comedy which is to be made here entirely with local children, continues to grow, according to the manager of the Saenger Theater, sponsoring the local production.

To give local youngsters between the ages of 3 and 12 an opportunity of appearing before a camera crew and entering a story that will make a two-reel comedy, the theater has engaged the Melton Barker Juvenile Productions. This organization is familiar with the casting and filming of youngsters and has been active throughout the nation in producing juvenile comedies.

Registrations of applicants by local boys and girls who want to appear before the movie cameras continues briskly, but the theater management and William D. Patton, casting director, from Hollywood, are eager to get additional youngsters. As soon as all the applications are received, actual casting will begin. Mr. Patton will assemble the applicants and give them a Hollywood test. Those selected through this test, which will be made before a regular sound camera and then be assigned roles for the production. Fifty to seventy-five local youngsters will be selected and the entire picture will be made here.

Those children who so far have not had an opportunity of registering and who want to try out for a part in the picture may do so by making application at the theater.

Every type of child is needed for the picture—tall and short youngsters, "fatties" and "leans" and every other type. There will be some call for singing and dancing types, but neither of these talents is necessary. Mr. Patton wants to get as many applicants as he can to assure himself of having covered the city thoroughly in his search for talent that will later sparkle on the screen.

"The more youngsters I get to look at, the better my chance of selecting a cast that will genuinely represent the typical local youngsters," said Mr. Patton. "The theater management is particularly eager to make the shooting of the local film an outstanding event and for this reason we want as many youngsters as possible to try out before the camera for a role in the production."

Paul Harrison in Hollywood

Unsung Hero Puts the Props Under Filmland Air Castles

HOLLYWOOD.—Consider the prop man: He toils and he also spins. He produces almost anything on a few minutes' notice, from elephants to Finland automobile license plates. And what he can't find, he makes.

A prop man is supposed to be invincible, infallible and indefatigable.
He dresses all the movie sets, and provides all the items, or properties, which are incidental to the action in a picture, down to the cigarette smoked by the players.

In talkietown, one always speaks of a prop "man" because there are not now and never have been any prop women. True, at Samuel Goldwyn's studio there is a feminine dresser of sets, but she is a specialist in interior decoration and stage dressing.

Her name is Julie Herron. Miss Herron never is called upon to find a troupe of trained fleas, or a one-cylinder automobile in good condition, or the swords and armor for an army of Saracens.

Throw It Together
At Warner Brothers is a veteran boss of the property department named Whitely Wilson who explained that his profession is masculine partly by tradition and mostly by the continuing need for speed.

"You take a woman who's brisk and efficient about most things, and she'll be as fussy as any housewife about fixing up a room," he said.

"The guys in a prop department usually have to decorate big, expensive sets in the time that an ordinary interior decorator would be squinting around making up his mind. Usually the painters don't even get through with a set until the day before it's to be used for a picture. Then, while the paint dries, we have to step in and fix it up pretty down to the last paper."

All for Art's Sake
Property men suffer for their art because very often they don't get credit for being right. Over at Paramount some complaining letters from cranky fans have been passed on to Oscar Lau, who worked on "Souls at Sea" and "The Buccaneer."

"How assinine," said a sample letter,
"to use an American flag of that period with 48 stars! There should have been only 30."

As a matter of fact there were only 30 stars on the flag in "Souls at Sea." Jack Wren, at Columbia, has just finished one of the most trying tasks a prop man ever faced. In the comedy,
"The Night Before," a police desk sergeant spends practically all his time piling matches on a bottle. Every time he gets them piled five or six inches high, something happens to knock them off again.

All this delicate work was done by Jack Wren. For every take in every scene in which the incident occurs, Wren had to do the balancing. He couldn't glue the matches, or whittle them square.

After several days of perching thousands of matches on dozens of bottles he was just a jump and a holler from the booby-hatch. And then, just in time to save his sanity, they got the last scene.

A Book a Day
By Bruce Catton

Love and Wit Brighten an English Picnic

If you like adroitly malicious writing, if you are a bit sentimental about young people in love, if you like to chuckle and occasionally to laugh out loud, you will find "The Picnic" (Putnam, $2.50), by Martin Boyd, a book to glad over.

Things begin happening in the English village of Plumbridge when local gossips learn that The Hall has been sold to a family of Australians. Mrs.
Malaby, pseudo-aristocrat, who believes all Colonials to be outside the social pale, is perturbed by the news
... but not so perturbed as when she learns that the Australian interlopers have a right to social position in the village which she never can obtain.

But for all that, there is something strange about the two Westlake boys.
They do not fit in life in the village as well as one would expect. And as for their mother and their wealthy aunt, even Lady Elizabeth, whose daughter Ursula loves Christopher Westlake, finds them a little hard to understand.

The climax of the book is reached when chaos descends on what was planned to be a highly conventional, ordinary picnic. Assault, burglary, and general confusion overcome the village, and not even the caustic suggestions of 80-year-old Aunt Albania Plumbridge can set things right until young love is accommodated.

For light, amusing reading, "The Picnic" is unexcelled. The most casual reader will enjoy it. The cleverly contrasted characters, the cynically wise dolog, are entertaining. The extreme intelligence of their handling, however, are the ironic shadings of the story make it worthy of more serious consideration than this type of novel usually merits.—E. M. T.

Bodeaw P. T. A. Meeting
The Bodeaw Parent Teachers Association met on Wednesday, November 24, in the High School auditorium.
The president, Mrs. McConnell, presided over the meeting. Miss Bussey's room gave a very interesting program on Thanksgiving.

During the business meeting, means of raising money for the library were discussed. The association hopes to add many new books to the library during the year.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, December 22.

Researchers Issue Kiss History for the Movie Players Who Don't Know

Studios Opposed to a "Lip Click Kiss" Because They Sound Like Rifle Shots When Translated Onto the Sound Track

By HUBBARD KEAVY
HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—For the benefit of any actor or director who doesn't know about the kiss, one of the studio's research departments has issued a brochure on "The History of the Kiss."

Brief though it is, it fairly bulges with information, based largely on Nypor's kiss history, published in 1702.
Three definitions of the word "kiss" are included. It is a "touch or pressure of the lips," "a salute or caress given with the lips," or "a lip click!" Recording departments are unalterably opposed to clicks because they sound like rifle shots when translated onto the sound track.

The forgotten Mr. Nypor's scholarly treatise says that Rumanian girls like to be kissed by bearded men, that tobacco flavored kisses are favored by German girls and that the Romans knew only three kinds of kisses. But Nypor—and the researchers' final authority—listed only five sorts of osculations: love, affection, peace, respect and friendship.

The love kiss, wrote Nypor, should not be too long, nor too short, and it should be moist but not wet. He advised that he thought it best not seen in public, which just goes to show how conditions have changed since 1702.

Only this one book, declares the research department, has been written about the kiss since 1702.

Time for Another
The department thinks, incidentally, that it is about time another book on kisses is compiled and the intimation is that during the two and a third centuries that have passed much additional information about kissing has been assembled. Most of this could be

Travelers Obtain New Outfielder

Joe Dwyer, Former Nashville Slugger, Purchased by Prothro

LITTLE ROCK—The Little Rock Travelers purchased outfielder Joe Dwyer from Jersey City of the International League, James Thompson (Doc) Prothro announced Wednesday. Dwyer, a right hander, hit .378 with the Nashville Vols in 1936.

At the close of the 1936 season, Dwyer was sold to the Cincinnati Reds by Nashville. Soon after the 1937 season opened, he was purchased by Travis Jackson for his Jersey City team. He played in 88 games last season and finished with a .268 average.

To Shift Players
Prothro said he planned to use Dwyer in left field and shift Art Graham to center. If Leo Nonnenkamp, who played center last season, is returned to the club by the Boston Red Sox, Graham will go to right.
Dwyer was runner-up for the Southern Association batting title in 1936. He set a new record for two-base hits.
Prothro telegraphed he was seeking a shortstop, a third baseman and at least two pitchers. He said there was little trading going on and players were almost impossible to obtain.
A renewal of the working agreement with the Clarkdale club of the Cotton States League has been signed by Traveler officials, Prothro announced.

Ozan

D. M. City has returned from Homer La., where he has been visiting since Thanksgiving day.
Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Allen and little daughter, Jenny Sue, and James Coffee, all of Hope, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed May and family.
Ollie Baber, of Nashville, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Baber, Sunday.
The Rev. G. W. Robinson conducted regular preaching services at the Ozan Methodist church, Sunday morning and night.

Jack Goodlett and Louie Hughes, of Camp Alton, spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Goodlett.
Mrs. Ben Stuart and daughter, Willie and Elizabeth Hanna were shopping in Nashville, Monday.
Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Smead had as dinner guests, Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robins, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hines and son Dale.
Mrs. Flora Wakely of Nashville, and Mrs. Willis Robertson, of Camden, have been visiting Mrs. Earl Robins.
Mr. and Mrs. Benmie Hartsfield, of Seminole, Okla., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Smith Sunday afternoon.

Martha Ford Stuart and Edna Stuart spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ford Stuart.
Mrs. Jerome Smith and Mrs. John Harrow have had some beautiful shrubs and evergreens set out around their homes.
Miss Charleen Crane, of Hope, spent Friday night with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Crane.
John Nesbit of Louisiana, is visiting friends in Ozan.
Frank Christian, who has been in the hospital in Little Rock, has returned home. He is expected to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. City Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Jones and Miss Helen Frances City attended the show at Nashville, Tuesday night.
Mrs. Eugene Goodlett and Mrs. Ben Stuart served at co-hostesses for a social gathering of the members of the St. Paul community, at the home of Mrs. Eugene Goodlett, Friday night.
The group enjoyed an evening of bridge and punch. Earl Robins won the high score in bridge and Robert Goodlett won the high score in punch. After the games were over the hostesses served a delicious plate of sandwiches and hot coffee. Out of town guests included Mrs. Flora Wakely of Nashville, Mrs. Willis Robertson of Camden, and Mrs. O. P. Nelson of El Dorado.

Grid Contest Would Be Played at Tulsa New Year's Day

FORT SMITH, Ark.—(AP)—The Southwest American Wednesday night said it had "definite information" that the Tulsa (Okla.) Chamber of Commerce has issued a challenge to Fordham University to meet the University of Arkansas Razorbacks in a post-season football game at Tulsa January 1.

The paper also quoted Dr. Fred G. White, president of the University of Arkansas Booster Club, as saying he was "practically assured Arkansas will accept the invitation if the game is arranged." Dr. White, the paper said, reported that undefeated Villanova might be a second choice to meet the Razorbacks if Fordham should decline the invitation.

Phenomenal High School Boy Runs Wild Before 120,000

Look at that hole as Bill De Correvont scores a touchdown for Austin against St. Leo as the former won the Chicago high school championship before 120,000 persons at Soldier Field. So phenomenal has De Correvont's play been for two campaigns that the contest drew the largest football crowd in history—college or preparatory. De Correvont ran to two other touchdowns and passed over the St. Leo goal line for the fourth, as Austin prevailed, 26-0. De Correvont enters college next fall. The line has formed on the right.

Guernsey, Piney Grove Split, Rosston and Columbus Teams Win Cage Battles

Basketball Gets Into Full Swing Over County as Rural School Clash With Rivals in Renewal of Cage Contests

GUERNSEY.—Guernsey and Piney Grove junior cage teams clashed in two games here Wednesday afternoon, the Piney Grove girls winning the first game, 10 to 7. The Guernsey boys won over Piney Grove boys, 28 to 10.

Drown of Piney Grove took individual scoring honors in the girls game, making six of her team's 10 points. Her teammate, Graham, played a good defensive game.

Avallett, forward for Guernsey, played well, making five of her team's seven counters. Cattle of Guernsey played a good defensive game.

The Guernsey junior boys got revenge by taking a 28 to 10 decision from Piney Grove. Coach Bristow of Guernsey sent in most of the second string players during the last quarter.

Guernsey showed considerable power in hanging up 20 points during the first two six-minute quarters. Every member of the Guernsey team tossed at least one field goal. Captain Hartwell of Guernsey counted eight points while playing the first three quarters.

Guard Mosier of Guernsey hung up six points during the first half. Rogers, center for Piney Grove, showed up best for his club, making seven of his team's 10 points. Guernsey returned home to prepare for three games with Spring Hill on the Guernsey court Friday afternoon, the first game to begin at 1:30 p. m.

Rosston Wins Three

ROSSTON.—Rosston High School basketball teams won three games from Putnam High School, Friday night, November 26, in the Putnam High School gymnasium.

Rosston senior boys defeated Putnam, 28 to 12.

Rosston juniors won by a score of 15 to 13.

Rosston girls won over Putnam by a score of 30 to 24. The girls game was the most exciting as Rosston was trailing until the last two minutes, overcoming a lead to win.

Rosston senior boys and girls will go to Friendship Friday night and to Okolona Saturday night for games with those schools. The Dixie Black-face Minstrel will not be given at Rosston until a later date.

Columbus Team Wins

COLUMBUS.—Columbus and Mineral Springs High School basketball teams split in two games played Tuesday, November 30.

The Columbus senior girls, reported to be much stronger this year, won over Mineral Springs by a score of 20 to 13. Boyce was the star of the game. Tolkis was best for Mineral Springs.

The Mineral Springs senior boys defeated Columbus by a score of 42 to 23. The Mineral Springs team boasts a strong team this year. Lay of the Hornets paced his team in scoring.

CHICAGO—Word is that Howard Jones, majordomo of Southern California football affairs for 13 years will make his exit if Troy bows to U. C. L. A. in the mammoth Los Angeles Coliseum, December 4.

Nor will it be a voluntary action on Jones' part. Jones likes Southern California and he likes his job, but the alumni wolves, backed up in a surprising manner by an immediate university element, are in full cry.

At the beginning of the campaign about to close, there was every indication that the Trojans would go places. There was a fair nucleus on hand from the 1936 squad, along with a brilliant crop of sophomores.

But Southern California fared none too well. The Trojans defeated little College of the Pacific, Ohio State, and Oregon. They lost to Washington, California, Stanford, and Notre Dame, and were tied by Washington State and Oregon State.

In the face of this somewhat disastrous season—the fourth in a row—Southern California alumni, who can't seem to tolerate a losing football team, suddenly found an ally in a certain university group that is interested only in filling the athletic coffers. And if Jones can't produce the team to do it they want someone who can.

Alumni, in a big-hearted way, gave up the Notre Dame game a month ago, although they would have been in the first stages of delirium tremens had they been at South Bend to see how close Troy came to winning without the services of the great back, Amby Schindler.

So now the crux of the whole situation lies in the U. C. L. A. contest. According to the steam which is being worked up, Jones must win. The lid will be blown off with a crash if and when the Trojans win.

On the surface, all the discontent appears a bit misplaced. The backbone of Jones' club this year turned out to be sophomores. The reserve strength was sophomore. In losing to the Irish, 13-6, the first-year men gave promise of developing into a whale of a ball club next season.

Phelan Would Switch
Grenville Lansdell perhaps was an even better quarterback than Schindler was at any time this fall. Bill Engstler and Bob Hoffman looked like world beaters. Harry Smith and John Thomassin, guards, and Don McNeil tackle, have performed like veterans all season. All they need is experience.

But unless U. S. C. slips by its inter-city rival, Jones probably will get no further chance to develop these prize packages. Someone else will fall heir to the best material on the coast.

And who would that be? Those who have their fingers close to the pulse won't be surprised if it is Jimmy Phelan, now at Washington.

The Husky coach isn't exactly satisfied in Seattle. Just to balance things, the Puget Sound country isn't over-enthused about Phelan. It is said that Phelan would welcome the change and a chance to get in on the Southern California upswing.

An unsung, incidentally, which is almost certain to come within the next grid season or two.

Deer Hunting Is a Rich Man's Sport

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—(AP)—Venison proved expensive to hunters who shot their own in the San Bernardino national forest this year.

Neul M. Rahn, forest range examiner, estimates the cost at approximately $1 per pound. His estimate includes expenditures for guns, ammunition, food, gasoline and other items.

During the season 186 deer were shot within the forest, or one for every five hunters checked into the area.

Memorial to Miners

FAIRMONT, W. Va.—(AP)—Funds will be raised by public subscription to erect a monument to the 352 men who died 30 years ago in the Monongah mine disaster, the greatest American mining history. The memorial will be placed on the Clarksburg-Fairmont highway.

A pair of rats would have 20,000,000 descendants if they could live to be 50.

Birmingham Club Names Manager

Fresco Thompson Will Pilot Club During 1938 Season

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(AP)—Fresco Thompson, former infielder with the Philadelphia and Brooklyn National League clubs, was named manager of the Birmingham Barons Wednesday, succeeding Riggs Stephenson.

Thompson will play either second or third for the Barons, Jim Burt, the club's executive vice president, said in a telegram from Milwaukee, where the appointment was announced.

The new Barons manager is 34 and a native of Centerville, Ala. He played 82 games with Minneapolis of the American Association last season, hitting .410.

His best major league last year was 1929, when he scored 115 runs and batted .324 for the Phillies in 148 games.

Georgia Mentor Quits Head Coaching Post

ATHENS, Ga.—(AP)—Harry Mehre, one-time Notre Dame grid star whose University of Georgia football teams have sometimes reached heights of national recognition, resigned Wednesday the head coaching job he held 10 years.

Mehre said only that he believed he should resign "for the future of Georgia and its athletic teams" but in sports circles there has been talk for months that "the wolves are howling for Mehre."

University athletic officials declined comment on the resignation, or on a possible successor to Mehre, who did not announce his plans for the future. The faculty athletic committee will meet at a date yet to be set to act on the resignation.

Safety Record Improves On San Francisco Span

SAN FRANCISCO.—(AP)—After the lapse of a year and passage of 8,000,000 machines, traffic on the giant San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge is steadier and safer. So report Harold Atkins and J. A. Fowler, who have patrolled the structure since the day it opened.

Early-day faults of travelers across the eight-mile span were listed by the officers as stopping or slowing down to look at the scenery, attempting to cross on foot and running out of gas.

Camps for Jobless Built in California

VINA, Calif.—(AP)—A camp of 150 buildings which will accommodate 250 men is nearing completion, one of a number planned to meet California's unemployment problem. Jobless men without families will be sent to these camps instead of receiving cash payments as at present, but transients will not be admitted.

The men will receive bed, board, clothing, tobacco and medical care but no pay. They will be free to leave at any time to take employment.

75,000 Students in School Experiment

Textbook Material Is Being Taught From "Experiences"

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK.—Seventy-five thousand New York City school children are playing guinea-pigs for the biggest educational experiment in the United States—and liking it.

In 67 schools, nearly 10 per cent of the entire school system, more children than the totaled combined populations of the New York and New Jersey state capitals, are partaking of a new curriculum. Called an "activity program," it actually is a supercombination of progressive and conservative methods.

Dr. John J. Loftus, associate superintendent, who oversees the program, is forever on a tour of the institutions involved, ranging from Hell's Kitchen to Park avenue.

Teaching By "Experiences" He says the experiment has worked well, so far, and that is his belief that by end of the six-year period allotted for the test, every school in the city will want to join in. At present it is confined to the first six grades of the designated schools. In the experiment, now in its second year, textbook material is taught, not only from textbooks, but from "experiences."

A visit to the local grocery store (that's an "experience") may mean a lesson in arithmetic—what food costs; geography—where food comes from; and spelling—try broccoli, with a little study in human nature thrown in for good measure.

But the 75,000 children don't spend all their time touring the city. They do plenty of work right in their own classrooms. They may build a model of the coming World's Fair—and learn a lot of history while they're doing it.

If their teacher is alert, they can tie in the French and Indian war, the battle of Gettysburg, and other historical landmarks with past World's Fairs.

The activity program means plenty of work for the teachers. At the start of the school year, they must choose the sort of experiences they're going to teach.

If the experiences chosen for the fourth grade—there still are grades in the activity program—do not include the usual textbook material covered by fourth graders, the experiences can't be included. There must be a tie-up with subject matter.

Why, ask the ultra-progressives? Dr. Loftus has three answers ready.

1. New York City students have to pass Regents' examinations at the end of their elementary school work.

2. Many New York City students transfer to other schools during the elementary period, and must meet standard requirements.

3. Elementary schools lay the foundation for college preparation—and the majority of colleges as yet adhere to regulation grade systems and traditional examinations, where textbook knowledge is necessary.

The activity program may be extended to all the schools at end of the six-year period—at least, through the first six grades—and eventually through junior and senior high schools.

Most Beautiful Gifts of All

By Allecia Hart

NEW YORK.—Regardless of her age, size, height or weight, no matter who she is, where she came from or where she's going—every woman wants beauty gifts for Christmas. For that matter, her brother, father, husband, children or best beau will be delighted with "beauty" aids. From a brand new perfume "to wear only with black" (for the sophisticated) to a new men's set of lotions in masculine-looking, pottery bottles, there's an appropriate beauty preparation for each person on your list.

Sumptuous and smart is a face powder ensemble, containing two shades of powder, one to be applied atop the other, and a brush to help one do the blending job successfully.

From the same house comes a truly handsome bath set, including a giant cake of soap, toilet water, bath powder and bath salts, all scented with a subtly sweet perfume. An especially generous gesture would be to include a small bottle of perfume in the same order.

There are dozens of new perfumes on the market, not to mention all the old favorites in new bottles and packages. Three sweet little bottles are packed together beneath a Christmas bell.

A huge cake of bath soap nestles inside a Santa Claus mask. A wonderful cologne comes in a bottle which simulates a brandy decanter. A quart size champagne bottle contains cologne liquid for the bath and is packed in a wine basket. In a wicker steamer basket are perfume, a decanter of cologne, a lipstick and bath powder. Three bottles of perfume go in a small metal crate, and can be locked in.

What a beautiful surprise for Christmas morning! On the mantel are a comb, brush and mirror set of bleached maple, perfume and toilet water in a wine basket. On the table are: a de luxe manicure case, perfume, a set of nail lacquers, bath and face powders, a rich night cream in a shiny black jar, a tiny makeup kit no larger than a lipstick and a novelty nail brush.

are larger than ever. Guests cakes come in lovely flower shapes. A woman who entertains a good deal would be pleased with tiny round cakes of guest soap, wrapped in red paper, on a tree branch with cherry leaves top and bottom. Each guest picks off a cherry of soap as he needs it.

Among the more pretentious beauty gifts are fitted evening and daytime bags. One purse comes in a variety of leathers, holds a bottle of lotion, jars a box of dusting powder with down puff. These two items are packed together in a stunning box, and the glass jar of powdered milk is tied up with pink or blue satin ribbon.

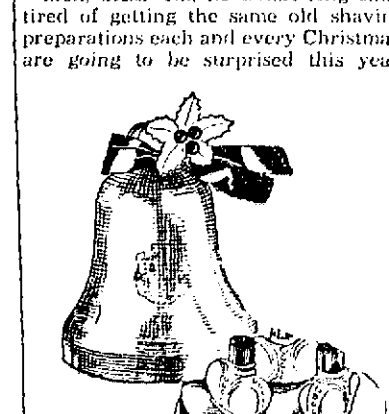

Making Hostess and Guests Happy

Practically every manufacture of cosmetics features several makeup kits, from smallish, rather inexpensive ones to de luxe types which include enough of everything to last the average woman for months and months and months. One purse comes in a variety of leathers, holds a bottle of lotion, jars a box of dusting powder with down puff. These two items are packed together in a stunning box, and the glass jar of powdered milk is tied up with pink or blue satin ribbon.

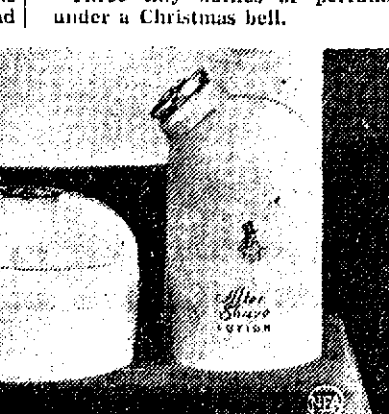

It's almost impossible to go wrong on soap, particularly if you buy it from an established house. Bath cakes of cleansing and foundation creams and has ample space for fillhold, change purse, compact, note pad, pencil and so on. If she hates putting fresh makeup on over stale during the day, this is the gift she'll love.

Flattering Manly Beauty

Men, bless 'em, no doubt long since tired of getting the same old shaving preparations each and every Christmas, are going to be surprised this year.

Three tiny bottles of perfume under a Christmas bell.

For men... a toilet set which includes hair tonic and after shave lotion in new pottery bottles and a bowl of shaving soap.

Give him his favorite shaving soap and face lotion, of course, but consider adding: a talcum in a bamboo-shaped container with a red top; a set, containing cologne, shaving soap and talcum as well as aftershave lotion and a shampoo; a cowhide humidifier case. The cowhide is on a strong wood frame, the inner cover is lined with cork, and cedar compartments separate deodorants of lotion and cologne. An ivory shaving bowl and a matching container of talcum.

If he travels a good deal, give him a fitted case. Or find an oil-skin-lined, unfitted case, then fill it with his favorite preparations. Travel or no, if he doesn't have one, he'd probably like a manicure set. The newest models are masculine-looking enough to please any male you know.
